Resumo

My name is Amanda Milanez and I'm a fashion designer, specializing in surface design and illustration.

I drew and created my whole life, most of the time I learned alone, self-taught, thus learning at home to draw manually using materials such as india ink, watercolor, magic color, colored pencils, among others, and to use software such as Photoshop, Adobe Illustrator and Procreate.

I was born in Criciúma and graduated in Technology in Fashion Design from UNESC/Senai, and through that I started my work at La Moda in June 2015 initially as a young apprentice, in 2 months I joined the Surface Design sector and there I discovered that I really wanted to do for a living. At that time I learned to draw using the digitizing table and improved my digital techniques.

Between 2019 and 2023 I worked as a print designer at Grupo Malwee in Jaraguá do Sul, developing prints for the adult female and male segment and pajamas. During this period I participated in the development of prints in partnership with the brand A Lá Garçonne of the renowned stylist Alexandre Herchcovitch and also with the development of licensed prints for Peanuts and PlayStation.

I currently work as a freelance illustrator and 2D designer for BBTv.
